Thank you for being a part of Hostile Terrain 94.

Whether you filled out tags, observed artifacts, or read names on the map wall, today you participated.

We are bringing this exhibit around the world to memorialize those who have lost their lives while crossing the Arizona desert and to get volunteers like you to come together and say their names—to remember that they are not just data on a spreadsheet or dots on a map. They will not be forgotten.

As you leave the exhibit, we understand that you may feel many emotions. We've felt them too, and want you to know that they will come and go in different waves and different ways. So, sit with those feelings and read on to find out how you can turn those feelings into action.
